We use a solfege system called "movable 'do.'" This means that each syllable is assigned to a different note depending on what key you're in. Solfege in the key of C is shown above. But if we were to move to the key of D, D would be "do," E would be "re," F# would be "mi," and so on.